New programs, personnel

Schools open Monday

Upland's public schools will start Monday with regular schedules planned at all levels. The schools will have few personnel changes although counselors have been cut at the junior high level.

Upland High School

Upland High School will have 15 new teachers as the school expands from a five-period day to a six-period day for about half the students.

The change resulted from an increase in graduation requirements from 200 credits to 210 credits and an increase in required English credits from 25 (five semester classes) to 30 (six semester classes). Increased credits have been strongly supported by parents.

Physical education classes also face changes since juniors and seniors will take physical education classes on an elective — or voluntary — basis. Classes for 10th-12th graders will be coeducational for the first time with a variety of sports available to students.

New department heads at the high school include Barbara Morrison, business education; and Sam Rice, industrial arts. Norm Woods is the high school's new counselor.

Upland Junior High

Upland Junior High School will start the fall semester with two new programs — one in bilingual-bicultural education and one in reading enrichment.

The federally funded bilingual-bicultural program will combine 15 Spanish-speaking students and 15 Anglo students three periods a day. The students will study Spanish, English and history together.

The new Personalized Reading Enrichment Program (PREP) is aimed at helping students enjoy reading by providing interesting hardcover and paperback books they can take home to read.

The program will use some 300 books, strategy cards, special lesson plans, and group discussions to get students involved in reading.

A special feature of the program is automatic replacement by the book company of all books lost during the first three years of the program.

Pioneer Junior High

Pioneer Junior High School will open for the fall semester with many students from newly completed subdivisions. Other students will start throughout the semester as additional homes are completed.

The program at the junior high school will be similar to last year, but teachers and administrators will concentrate on "assertive discipline" as a positive approach to student problems. Teachers are receiving special training in assertive discipline during inservice training days before the start of school.

Elementary schools

Baldy View and Foothill Knolls elementary schools will have new principals this year. Jim Smith, formerly principal at Baldy View, will serve as principal at Foothill Knolls while Robert Clarke, formerly at Foothill Knolls, will serve as principal at Baldy View.

Roberta Rowland Henningan will start her first full year as principal at Sycamore School and Frank Migaiolo will start his first full year as principal at Magnolia School. Both were assigned to the schools last spring.

A number of special programs will start or expand at district schools this semester. An Early Childhood Education (ECE) program, presently established at Valencia and Foothill Knolls schools, will be expanded to Upland Elementary School.

The ECE program will provide instructional aides and additional materials for kindergarten through third-grade students.

Bilingual-bicultural

Bilingual-bicultural programs will be expanded to include additional classes at Upland Elementary and Foothill Knolls schools. The federally funded program provides bilingual aides, instructional materials, and in-service training for teachers.

Upland Elementary will add a bilingual-bicultural kindergarten class to the two primary and one upper-grade bilingual-bicultural classes presently offered.

Foothill Knolls will expand the bilingual-bicultural program to an upper-grade class in addition to the two primary-grade classes presently offered.

A state-funded program to assist physically handicapped students in regular classrooms will be implemented at Cabrillo School. The program will assist students who suffer from such problems as asthma, diabetes and epilepsy.

The two-pronged program will focus on health and academic development. A nurse will counsel students and parents so they can understand and deal with the student's handicap.

A resource teacher will work with classroom teachers and students who are having problems with academic development, perhaps because of numerous absences caused by the physical problem.

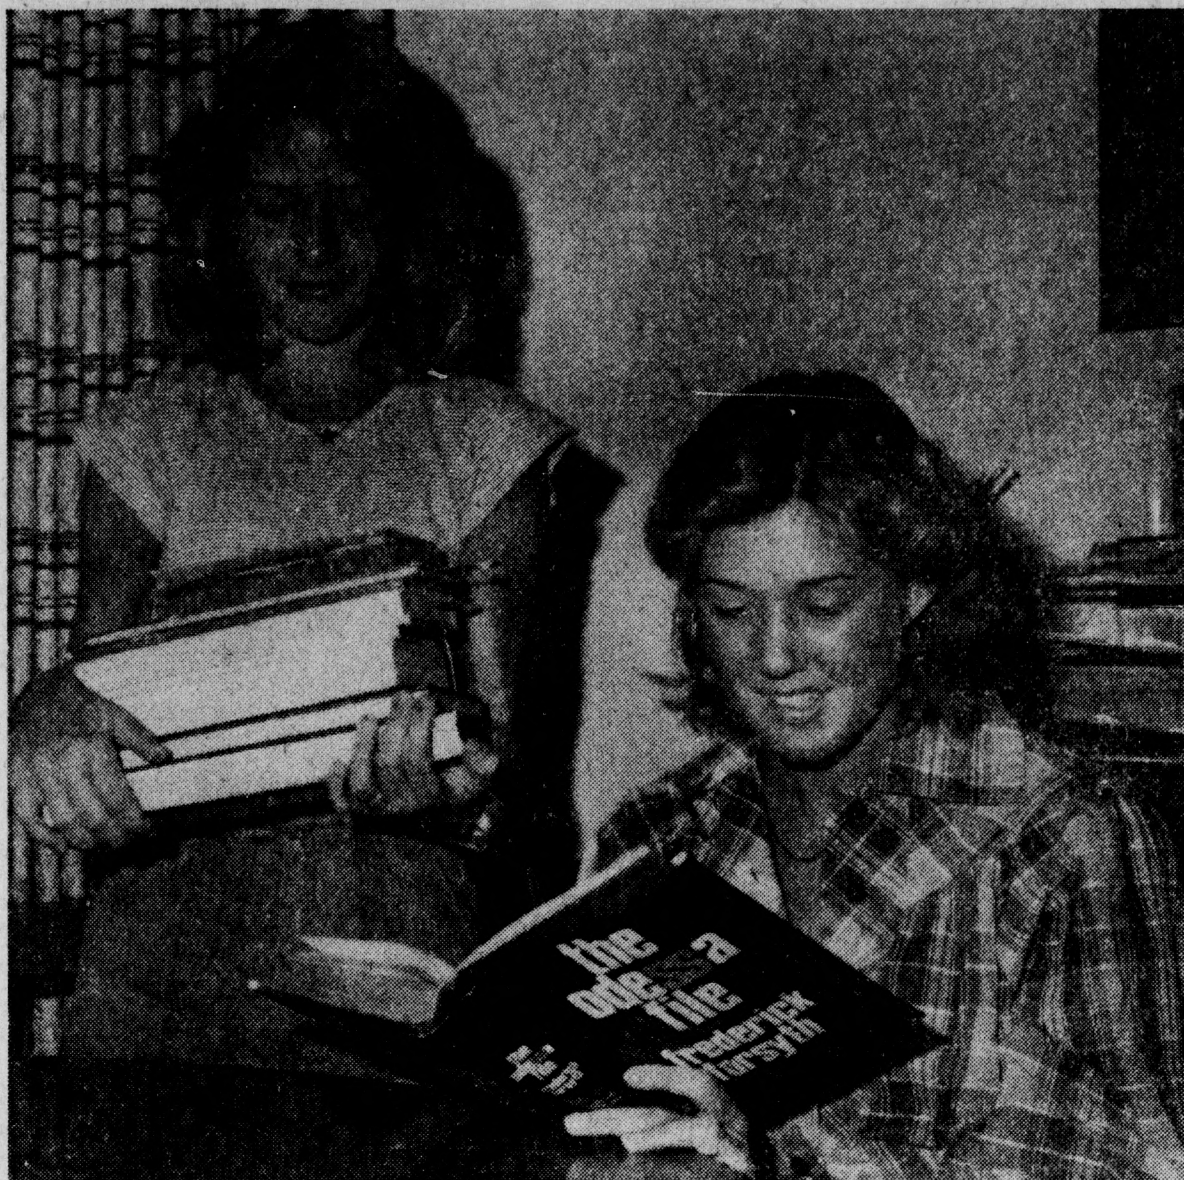

The district's Professional Development Center program will travel to Valencia and Magnolia schools this year. The program provides in-service training to help teachers become more effective in the teaching process.

Boating classes to be offered

United States Power Squadrons will offer a free boating education program in Upland during early September.

The 13 evening sessions will include boat handling under normal conditions and adverse conditions, common emergencies, boating rules of the road, navigation, compass and chart, running lights and equipment, trailering, piloting, and river boating. The instruction is oriented to outboard, inboard, and sail.

For class information and registration call (213) 336-1479.

BACK TO THE BOOKS — While public school students still enjoy their last days of summer vacation, parochial school students, such as Kate (left) and Carrie Klinefelter of Upland, have begun to think of textbooks, reading assignments and homework. Kate is an eighth grader at St. Joseph's School, Upland and Carrie is a senior at St. Lucy's, Priory, Glendora. (Photo by Lynne Locke)

The Calderheads get a son

Adoption process: definitely worth it

By Lynne Locke

The adoption process is long and complicated but definitely worth it, according to the Rev. Robert and Connie Calderhead, whose adopted son Chris has been an official member of the Upland family for three months.

The Calderheads started the adoption process after several years of testing to learn why there were childless.

Their adoption experience included long waiting lists through Los Angeles County and then the offer of a baby — just after they had moved across the county line and had become ineligible for a Los Angeles County baby.

They applied to adopt a baby through San Bernardino County, but their file was lost and they had to start over.

When their Chris finally arrived on the scene — after four years of waiting — he came through a private adoption between the Calderheads and his birth mother.

Chris was a special joy to the Calderheads because two earlier adoptions had been promised and then withdrawn, one of the disadvantages of a private adoption, Rob said and added, "It really hurts."

The "secret" of a private adoption is a good attorney with "the knowhow and guts to size up the situation," he said and noted the attorney must understand people well enough to tell whether the birth parents have really decided to give up their baby for adoption or will change their minds at the last minute.

The possibility of the birth and adoptive parents meeting is an advantage of private adoption, Rob said and added, "Meeting his mother quieted our anxieties about her taking him back. It was easy to tell she had no doubts. That's a real plus."

Meeting Chris' birth mother also gave the Calderheads a chance to be sure she was taking care of herself so the baby would be born healthy and for her to be sure they would be good parents, Connie said.

The biggest advantages of private adoption were seeing Chris shortly after birth and bringing him home from the hospital as a tiny baby, Connie said noting county-adopted babies are placed in foster homes for a time to be sure they are healthy and to be sure the birth parents have really decided to give up their baby.

The Calderheads were allowed to see Chris when he was 5 hours old and still red and bruised from birth. "It was absolutely super," Connie said.

Private adoption is similar to natural birth since parents do not know their baby's sex or appearance until after birth even though the adoption was planned many months earlier, she said.

The Calderheads don't expect their son's adoption to be a problem. They plan to tell Chris about his birth mother who "really loved him" and gave him up so he could have a better life, Connie said.

Chris' baby book — one especially tailored to an adopted child — will help tell that story of his early life. Like other baby books it includes his birth, and coming home from the hospital.

But Chris' book also has special events such as the court appearance three months ago when the judge finally declared Chris part of the Calderhead family, and awarded a new birth certificate with Connie and Rob listed as his parents.

"He's going to have curiosity about his natural parents. But he's not going to stop loving us when he's older," Connie commented and noted a more likely problem is that Chris will be spoiled by the attention he receives from relatives and family friends who have accepted him with open hearts.

When they look back on their four-year search for Chris, the Calderheads remember the long wait, the problems, those two babies they wanted and didn't get, and the uncertainty they felt the night they found out their baby had finally arrived.

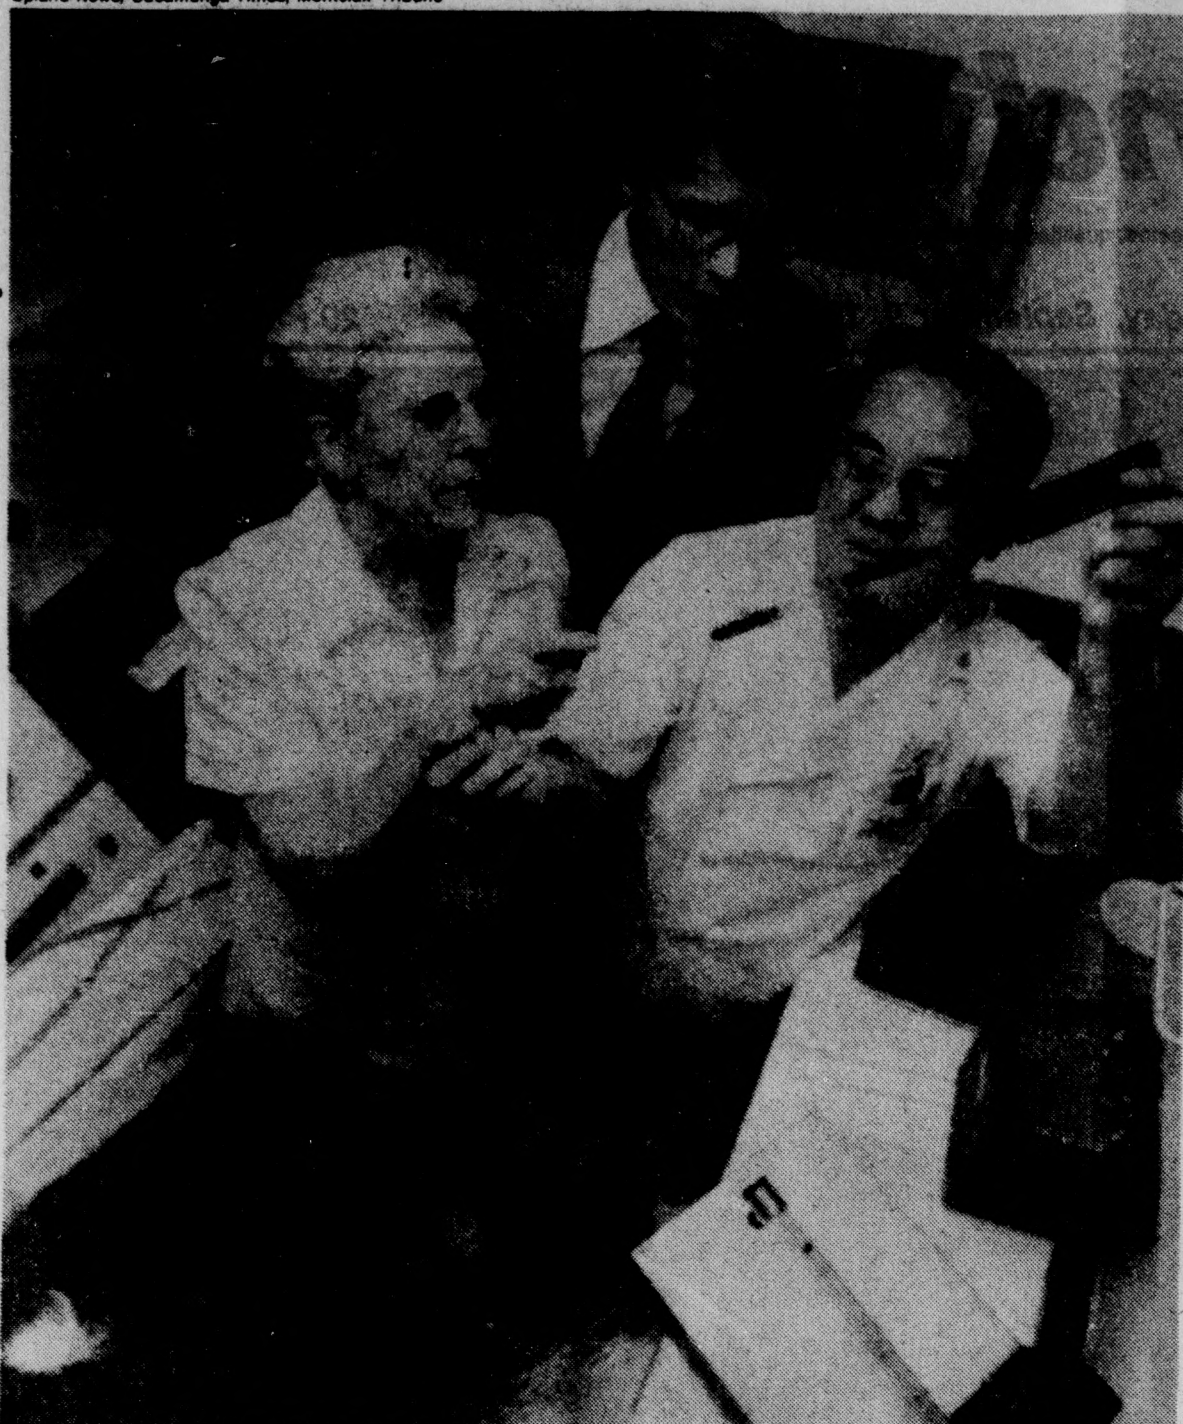

But with all of that, they're ready to rejoin the hundreds of couples looking for a child who will complete their family. This time they'd like a girl.

FAMILY PRIZE — The Rev. Robert Calderhead of Upland tosses adopted son Chris over his head — a typical playtime after years of waiting for a child. Adoption has been a long process for the Calderheads, but definitely worth it to have Chris as part of their family. (Photo by Lynne Locke)

Montclair auxiliary

New gifts for hospital

During the four years since the Auxiliary to the Doctors' Hospital in Montclair was formed, the members have contributed gifts valued at over $5,000.

The latest gift to the hospital has been a sensitometer and densitometer.

The sensitometer, according to R.S. Yamamoto, chief technologist, is a machine that electronically controls a film exposure to maintain a consistent exposure on test film.

A densitometer is an electronic eye that reads the exposed test film in order to maintain a consistency of exposures. He explained "With these instruments, quality control is maintained at a high level on our films. Each machine helps to determine whether the exposure factor of the X-ray machine is correct or not correct. They also help in determining if the processing of our films are at fault."

These machines cost $1,027. Along with the machines, the auxiliary also gave the hospital two new wheelchairs.

In the past four years, the auxiliary has held four maternity teas with a total of 154 persons attending.

At Christmas, the members make stockings which are given to the babies born during the holiday week. A money corsage of $10 is given to the mother of the New Year's baby.

During the past year, they members purchased a flag for the Avenue of Flags on Holt Boulevard. They also have given books, crayons and stuffed toys to the pediatric unit and given books to patients. They supply youngsters with candy in the cardiopulmonary department and emergency room.

Members also hosted the opening of the heart catheterization unit.

Kathryn Wilson, currently publicity chairman, and president for the 1975-76 year, reported during that year, the volunteer hours of auxiliary members came to 6,275 1/2.

Supervisors approve dog leash ordinance

A leash law intended to confine loose canines was approved Monday by the county board of supervisors. The animal control ordinance, which will go into effect Oct. 1, will allow the county to fine dogowners in unincorporated areas whose dogs run loose.

The new leash law will require that dogs be confined to their owner's property unless a dog "is restrained by a substantial leash not to exceed six feet in length" or is "under immediate control of its owner."

The supervisors acted on the ordinance Monday after hearing a report from the county's health department indicating that the stray dog problem in the county is reaching serious proportions.

Only Supervisors' Chairman Dennis Hansberger of Yucaipa, who wanted part of his district exempted from the ordinance, opposed the leash law.

"I think government ought not to exist until it's demanded," Hansberger said. "Until it's demand, we ought not to put it there."

Earlier this year, the supervisors raised dog license fees in the county to provide for the hiring of 17 more persons in the animal control program.

There will be a total of 25 animal control officers patrolling the county's unincorporated areas for loose dogs, including a special Patrol and Enforcement Team (PET) that will make surprise sweeps of neighborhoods in the valley areas of the county.

AIR SHOW - The United States Air Force Thunderbirds will highlight the Norton Air Force Base 'open house' Saturday. The Thunderbirds have averaged about 100 air shows per year, making them the world's busiest precision flying team. Known as the Air Force's "Ambassadors in Blue," they fly an exciting half-hour show demonstrating precision maneuvers. Norton's gates will open at 10 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. The base is located east of San Bernardino.

Precision flying, parachute jumpers

Norton holds open house

The U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds have one of the world's greatest shows, rolling in tight formation high above crowds, or "wing-walking" a few feet above the ground.

The team will highlight the Norton Air Force Base open house 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Saturday. The public is invited to the free event.

In recent years, the Thunderbirds have averaged approximately 100 air shows per year, making them the world's busiest precision flying team. To date, the Thunderbirds have appeared before more than 118 million aviation enthusiasts in all of the 50 states and in 45 countries.

Known as the Air Force's "Ambassadors in Blue," they fly a half-hour show demonstrating precision maneuvers. They are an official Bicentennial organization and, as such, are offering the crowds a Bicentennial spectacular this year. After the show, the team will be available for autographs and to answer questions about flying, the T-38 supersonic trainers, themselves and the Air Force.

Also featured at the free event are parachute jumpers from Norton's Combat Control Team, a large display of Air Force and privately owned antique, and World War II and modern aircraft from all branches of the service. Aircraft will be open for public viewing.

Performances by the award-winning Drill and Marching Team from Norton, San Bernardino County Sheriff Mountain Rescue Team, Miniature Airplane Radio Control Society and the military working dogs, demonstrating patrol techniques and obedience training will occur throughout the day. Music will be provided by the March Air Force Band.

Aerospace Audiovisual Service (AAVS) will conduct tours throughout the building, and will display equipment and a variety of their products. The two sound stages at AAVS will be open to the public, 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. The stages will be set up with the lighting and camera equipment that is used in making still photography, motion pictures and television productions for the Air Force.

The command directs a worldwide network of audiovisual detachments. Displays include art work and animation, film editing and mobile and portable television capabilities. Television cameras in the studio will allow visitors to see themselves on a color television monitor. A live motion picture set shows how a sound motion picture scene is filmed during the tour.

Many award-winning still photographs will be displayed as well as motion picture, slide and multimedia presentations depicting Air Force activities around the world. Also, missile tracking cameras and other camera equipment used to document the mission of the Air Force will be displayed.

The displays will be in Area II of the base in bldg 248. Those wishing to see how audiovisual products are created in the Air Force may either drive to AAVS and park near the building or ride the special AAVS tour buses from Area I near the control tower. Buses will be operating a shuttle from the display section of Area I to AAVS 10 a.m. - 2:30 p.m. The tour through the AAVS facility will last about 30 minutes.

Food, drinks, parking and restrooms will be available to the public. Buses will carry visitors from the parking areas to the flightline displays. Photography will be allowed. A crowd of over 70,000 is expected and visitors should plan to arrive early and carpool whenever possible.

Norton's gates will be open 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. The base is located just east of San Bernardino and is accessible from I-10 and I-15 freeways.

Featured events at the open house include:

-10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Miniature Airplane Radio Control display.

-10:45 a.m. and 12:45 p.m. Norton Air Force Base Drill Team.

-11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. San Bernardino County Sheriff Mountain Rescue Team.

-2 p.m. Combat Control Team narrator's arrival and helicopter rappelling.

-2:05 p.m. Combat Control Team deployment and airdrop.

-2:30 p.m. Thunderbirds preflight show.

-3 p.m. Thunderbirds takeoff.

Continuous displays include vintage military uniforms, March Air Force Base Band in concert, military working dogs, and Bicentennial Air Force recruiting van.

Olympic figure skater to skate with Ice Follies in Los Angeles

Peggy Fleming, Olympic gold medalist figure skater, will return to Los Angeles as a special guest star in the all-new edition of Ice Follies, which will be appearing at The Forum from Sept. 8 through 19. It will be Peggy's only Southern California appearance of the year, and will give the people of Los Angeles a chance to see the same breath-taking display of skating that brought this native of San Jose the title of "Best in the World" and brought America its only gold medal in the 1968 Olympics in Grenoble, France.

Since that time, her famous ballet-like style on the ice has thrilled people the world over. In her last Forum appearance, Peggy broke all attendance records, just as she did at New York's Madison Square Garden and every other arena in which she has performed.

Her skating prowess is legendary. Within the time-span of five years, Peggy was United States Figure Skating Champion five times; World Figure Skating Champion three times; and ultimately Olympic Champion. One amazed Olympic official called her "nothing less than the greatest skater that has ever been."

Since her professional debut, Peggy Fleming has been starred in a series of her own television "Specials," each filmed on location in places related to her career. Among her shows were the Emmy Award-winning "Peggy Fleming at Sun Valley," the recent "To Europe With Love," filmed at Davos, Switzerland, and "Peggy Fleming Visits the Soviet Union," filmed in Leningrad and Moscow.

Magical secrets of moviemaking are told on Universal's stage 32

One of the most fascinating stops on the Universal Studios Tour is "Stage 32." Here, visitors get a real, behind-the-scenes look at how movies and television shows are filmed within the confines of a sound stage.

The first film production secret revealed is "matte process" where the actors are real but the backgrounds illusionary.

A film demonstration from one of Universal's most popular TV series, "McMillan and Wife" and two top-rated Universal movies, "The Sting" and "Earthquake," show how paintings on glass, known as mattes, are incorporated into motion picture film. A desired location, be it a misty Scottish moor or a sunny Riviera shoreline, is magically depicted without ever leaving the country.

On the "Ironside" set of Stage 32, such things as how movie makers make rain fall "on cue" are shown, along with how daytime and nighttime lighting is created.

A most realistic half of a full-scale San Francisco trolley car is used in an example of yet another film technique known as rear-screen projection. Audience members act out a "mini-scene" aboard the car while a film of San Francisco streets run behind on a screen, thus creating an illusion of city life and movement.

The final stop on Stage 32 is an eerie one, complete with haunted castle real enough to send shivers up the spine and terrifying special effects reminiscent of many of Hollywood's famous monster movies.

Opera set

Extra attractions will include William Windom as Thurber, Oct. 15 and 16; The Pacific Ballet Theatre's production of "The Nutcracker," Dec. 10 and 11, and Jose Ferrer in "Shakespeare Without Tears," Jan. 7 and 8. Ticket information is available by calling 626-4523.

McVittie bill approved

Legislation by State Assemblyman Bill McVittie (D-65) outlawing police "ticket quota systems" was recently approved by the State Senate and sent to the desk of Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. "Members of the public and the police profession have long detested the notion that a cop must write a predetermined number of tickets or be in hot water with his administrators," McVittie said. "Nobody denies that traffic citations provide substantial revenues for local communities, but to link proficiency in handing out citations to an officer's professional competence is poor public policy and counter-productive to the image of law enforcement."

The legislation (AB 2885) by the first-term lawmaker makes it an unlawful employment practice for a state or local agency employing peace officer to use the number of arrests or citations issued as the sole criteria for promotion, demotion, dismissal, or earning of benefits.

Brotocao endorsed

John Rodino, nephew of Congressman Peter Rodino (D-N.J.) and a life-long Democrat, announced that he is endorsing Republican Louis Brotocao for election to Congress for the 35th District and has agreed to headup the Democrats and Independents for Brotocao Committee. Rodino, a resident of West Covina, is the president of the Sivad Bio-Research Company of Covina and a member of the Covina Breakfast Lions.

Rodino explained, "The huge spending programs enacted by Congress have had little impact on those who were to benefit from these plans. The only demonstrable effect of our free-spending Congress has been upon the taxpayer who has to bear the brunt of unrealistic tax rates and a higher cost-of-living."

Brotocao welcomed Rodino into his camp saying, "This goes to show that my campaign has a broad base of support. Regardless of political party, the voters this year are determined to see to it that the people they elect will work diligently to cut the cost and size of government."

Stephens hits program

Clyde R. Stephens, Republican candidate for State

Assembly in the 65th Assembly District has called for the abolition of the probation subsidy program citing, "The program has been a dismal failure." Stephens, speaking to the organization of the California Credit Union League stated, "Counties have been compensated by the state for releasing convicted felons back into society on probation. The state pays each county up to $4,000 per convicted felon released on probation at the county level rather than being sent to state prison. A majority of these felons are rearrested while on probation for the commission of other crimes."

"It has been my contention that to reduce crime, we must reduce the convicted felon's access to society. McVittie (Assembly Bill McVittie D-35) has finally acknowledged this issue. He is asking for an audit. Crime is on the rampage in our district with burglaries, murders, assaults and armed robberies. We don't need an audit, we need action."

Mental health funds

Nearly $700,000 has been added to the 1976-77 San Bernardino County mental health budget, according to State Assemblyman Terry Goggin (D-66). Goggin had notified the Department of Mental Health in June that the Assembly had approved approximately $200 million for mental health services, which was about $11.5 million more than had been requested by the governor. According to Jim MacReynolds, DMH assistant director, administrative management, an additional $686,100 has been officially funded for San Bernardino County mental health services. To attain the required match in addition to funds already in the budget, the County Board of Supervisors added $38,000. Nearly half, or $333,275, is earmarked for contract agencies, MacReynolds said.

First priority for the money will be to give full-year funding to agencies that only received partial funding last year because the programs were new. Other possible uses, in order of priority, are evening out the salaries of contract agency directors, providing a cost of living increase and expanding existing services. MacReynolds said the next largest amount, or $289,500, will be used to fill DMH positions, previously frozen, and move them into Central Valley and West End to provide services where few exist. Finally, $25,325 is designated for medical and office supplies; and $40,000 for the installation of a new emergency generator in Ward B.

VENTRILOQUIST — Rally Sunday at Grace Lutheran Church Sunday School will feature ventriloquist Sandy Hardcastle and puppets Duck and Happy and Andy 9:45 a.m. Sunday at the church, corner of Euclid Avenue and 21st Street, Upland. The Rally Sunday program includes the launching of a helium balloon.

Upland collects soccer crowns

Upland's Boys' Division IV and Girls' Division III teams emerged champions in the AYSO Area G Summer Soccer Tournament completed last weekend at Chaffey College.

The Upland boys whipped Alta Loma-Cucamonga-Etiwanda (ACE), 4-0, behind three Cle Koolman goals to finish the tourney with a 4-0 record. The champs outscored opponents, 23-2.

School chief stalemate

Upland School District trustees were unable to agree upon an acceptable superintendent after receiving the applications of more than 40 educators, and the board will start all over again in its search for a new top district administrator, reported Barry Brandt, board president.

"A number of applicants were very qualified people, but we want someone with specific skills in specific areas... We didn't find anyone who met the specific needs of the district," Brandt said Wednesday.

The president said the board is searching for an administrator whose primary strength "is in curriculum." Brandt said the board is seeking an administrator who can oversee a strong education program that best utilizes the abilities of Upland students, who have socioeconomic factors that provide them with educational advantages.

Upland trustees in early June began their search for an educator to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Bill R. Plaster, who on July 1 became superintendent of the Fountain Valley School District in Orange County.

A three-member screening panel reviewed more than 40 applications and forwarded the board the names of approximately eight finalists.

After each finalist was personally interviewed by the board, trustees had one candidate who was given serious consideration for the $35,000 per year post.

The out-of-state educator was called for a second interview in mid-August, but the administrator obviously didn't have the strong support of all trustees, Brandt said.

"There definitely were some negative vibrations... At that point, I didn't think it should be put to a vote because it would have been a split vote in any event and I didn't want to put us in that position," Brandt reported.

The board president said an announcement on the continued search for a new superintendent will be made at the board's Sept. 14 meeting.

Deputies see local crime rise

Felony crimes reported to the West End Sheriff's Office for fiscal year 1975-76, ending July 31, rose 12.6 per cent over the previous year. This increase, however, is 2.5 per cent less than last year's increase.

Station commander Capt. Keith Larson attributes the rise in crime to the tremendous influx of new residents from Los Angeles and Orange counties.

Overall arrests decreased, possibly due to the change in the marijuana laws.

The West End office covers an area of 350 square miles and is responsible for crime protection in all incorporated areas stretching from the top of Mt. Baldy to the Orange and Riverside County lines and east and west from Etiwanda Avenue to the Los Angeles County line.

The area encompasses more than a half million people.

There were 1,938 reports of felony crime in the West End last year. Of those, narcotics crimes dropped 38 per cent while commercial burglaries rose 29 per cent. Check offenses declined 48 per cent. A 57 per cent rise in the number of sex offenses was reported.

Larson commented that help from the sheriff's reserves greatly aided the efforts of the sheriff. The reserves compiled a total of 17,569 hours of their own time.

Stolen property for the year was valued at $2,514,514. This was offset by a 63 per cent recovery rate in the amount of $1,580,155.

Staff at the West End office put in a total of 11,351 overtime hours. In addition, sheriff's cars were driven 484,645 miles in coverage of the area.

Larson acknowledged that response time to a call is sometimes not as fast as the resident may want, but he said the department is severely understaffed due to budget limitations and calls are answered on a priority basis.

He indicated the sheriff's office handles a lot of things not intended for police work, such as vacation patrol of homes. He said the reserves mainly handle this function.

To illustrate his point, Larson pointed out the office answered 114,244 public service calls, which include barking dog disturbances. This figure is up 40 per cent over last year.

Larson had no projection for the coming year in reference to these same areas saying it will be up again and there will probably be no increase in manpower again, except for two additional dispatchers.

Shark display

An 18-foot great white shark went on display at Sea World Saturday replacing a 12-foot 8-inch specimen the marine park has had on display since last August.

The female shark is the largest ever known to be caught on the west coast, and one of the largest ever captured. It measures 18 feet 1/2 inch, and weighs 4150 pounds.

A necropsy (surgical dissection) of the animal was conducted Wednesday and revealed the shark had eaten a large female elephant seal before it captured.

The shark's largest organ, the liver, weighed 575 pounds. The heart weighed 10 pounds. It took Sea World biologists seven hours to complete the necropsy.

The great white was captured by Larry Mansur and Hans Weeren of the sword-fishing boat Comanche on July 15, eight miles east of Catalina.

The shark was stored in a freezer at Sea World until a specially-built display unit was completed. The shark will be suspended in a swimming position in a 24-foot long, glass-walled freezer. The sides of the freezer are glazed with triple pane glass to prevent condensation. Two three-ton freezer units will keep the shark at a temperature of zero to 10 degrees Fahrenheit.

The shark display unit includes a model of the jaws of Carcharodon megalodon, a prehistoric shark three times larger than today's great white. The anatomically correct, life-size model of the C. megalodon jaws were constructed from studies of fossilized teeth, and structure of present day and ancient sharks.

Sea World plans a living shark research facility for 1978. Much of the scientific information gathered from the dissection of this and other sharks will help marine biologists learn how to keep sharks alive in captivity in the future.

Sea World, the 80-acre marine park on the shores of Mission Bay, features six exciting shows, dozens of fascinating exhibits, and fun-filled attractions like Cap'n Kids World, the most creative playground anywhere. The park is open daily from 9:30 a.m. until dusk.

A Woman Ought to Know Shelter for women?

Dear Anita,

A friend and her two children have moved in with me to hide from her husband. He has beaten her several times and now says he will kill her. She was turned away by the Salvation Army who takes only men. Isn't there some agency that can give her shelter?

A.T., Chico

Dear A.T.,

Thanks for bringing up a serious problem — it's often been hushed up. Women will accept beatings for years rather than risk humiliation or possible poverty if they talk about it or leave home. Only recently have the dimensions of the problem begun to surface.

The Los Angeles Women's Center estimates that approximately 500 women are homeless every night. The Isla Vista Women's Center has housed women punched and beaten by their husbands, women assaulted on the streets, women abandoned after hit-and-run accidents, and transients.

Existing agencies are bombarded with calls for emergency shelter beyond their financial and physical capabilities. Shamefully, most counties do not offer any help to women, even those with children. While a single man can often be taken care of overnight, a woman with children is likely to be left to her own resources — and often she is isolated and penniless.

Help is on the way, however, most large counties have opened new emergency shelters through revenue sharing funds and cooperation, in some cases, with private sources including United Way. Legally, emergency shelter is the responsibility of the county welfare department, but in fact a financial needs test often screens out women in crisis situations such as your friend's.

The first step in alleviating this problem is recognizing the need. The new shelters are giving us data on how desperate the need is. You can help by telling agencies in your community about your experience.

More voices need to be raised to ask for shelters that can help fearful women and their children.

Anita Miller

Dear Anita,

I'm shocked. Because I was divorced after 18, rather than 20 years, I don't qualify as my ex-husband's dependent to receive Social Security benefits. As a clerical worker I'll receive slightly more than the minimum $108 at age 65, but my ex-husband gets $354.

The years I spent raising four children could hardly be classified as a "vacation." Am I alone in thinking I've been had?

M.K.

Dear M.K.,
You are not alone in receiving less benefits than a man. Men are more than three times as likely to be entitled to the maximum benefits. Of the 4.3 million elderly poor, more than two-thirds are women. In 1972, 42 per cent of the women, versus 19 per cent of the men, received less than $120 a month in Social Security.

The reason? Benefits are based on income. Wives and mothers don't receive paychecks, so this labor is not counted even though care of children is probably as demanding and important as, say, being a physician. The life of a totally dependent human being — whether it's a child or a sick person — is an enormous responsibility. For mothers it lasts for years.

Legislators are beginning to understand this. Congressman Donald M. Fraser (D-Minnesota) has introduced a bill called "Equity in Social Security for Individuals and Families," which would drastically change coverage of married couples. They would be regarded as equals in an economic partnership.

Earnings of both husband and wife would be based on joint incomes, divided equally between partners and credited to separate accounts. This bill would go a long way towards equalizing benefits.

But we need more legislation to equalize Social Security benefits for all women, single or married. "Women's work" should be entitled us all to a comfortable retirement.

Anita Miller

Dear Anita,

My husband of 24 years left me for another woman. My only "compensation" for the loss of my husband, who I loved dearly and was a good wife to through all those years (his words), was a house with a large mortgage and a car (mortgaged). I did receive house payment money for one year and $75 monthly child support for my son until he was 21 years old — 18 months.

I had stayed home as a housewife because that's the way my husband wanted it and I was satisfied. In 1968-70 I completed an AA degree in nursing. This supposedly fulfilled a life-long dream. Actually, ever since I can remember I had heard, "Norma wants to be a nurse," and had no idea whether that was true. I worked as a nurse two years but found I couldn't cope with the stresses and demands of nursing. Unable to keep up car and house payments, I sold my home and spent most of the little money to move to my mother's in California.

I enrolled at a college in data processing and computer languages with a temporary, part-time job. I just learned I may be disqualified for unemployment since I don't want a nursing job and wish to return to school. I can't support myself on jobs that don't require training.

My husband is well off but refuses any communication with me. My mother has only Social Security and a small pension. Neither of my children can help. Is there any other assistance I can get for school?

N.S., Anaheim

Dear N.S.,

I am responding to you personally. The plight of the many "displaced homemakers" is only beginning to be recognized. Every married woman is a potential one. I would like to hear from women who have coped with this serious situation and can offer help.

Brethren in Christ Church

Pastor plans family church

By Don Ham
Editor

The Rev. J. Ralph Wenger and his wife Joan have been in California for just a little over a week, and they're already planning to build a church and religious program in Alta Loma.

The 50-year-old pastor will conduct his first Sunday worship service for the Alta Loma Brethren in Christ Church 10:45 a.m. Sunday in the Carnelian Elementary School auditorium, 7105 Carnelian St., Alta Loma.

Working from a foundation provided by church planner the Rev. Aaron Stern and a 40-member congregation, Wenger hopes to accomplish much in a short time.

Plans include increasing the congregation to 200 by October, beginning construction of a church building within six months, obtaining a church office in a local building, and building a church program to serve the needs of the local congregation.

"Our plans at this point are basically, by personal contact and Bible study groups, to bring together a congregation," Wenger said.

"We will be planning full family services which provide religious educational experiences for children and adults," he said, stressing the "family unit" and Bible teaching.

The church will serve the full family unit, he said, including family seminars and retreats, youth camps and training, and experiences which will be beneficial to young people and children.

"Our hope is that as the church grows, it will seek to have a program that will serve the family unit, including parents, singles and youths," Wenger added.

The program will also include a Bible study program (which meets 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays and is already operating in local homes), Sunday school, and family counseling services.

Wenger will bring to the church's counseling program his experience as a certified clinical, pastoral and educational counselor. He also served as chairman of the board of directors of psychiatric hospital in Waynesboro, Pennsylvania.

"We're enthused about it (church program). We're excited about what has happened up to this point," he said, adding that he will set church goals when he determines the capabilities of the church and its members.

The Brethren in Christ Church, Wenger said, is a "Protestant denomination which is founded in the beliefs of the evangelical church community. We hold to an authoritative view of the scriptures and believe Jesus Christ, God's son, is our only way of salvation."

"We believe in evangelism — in sharing the gospel with people who want to hear it," he said, stressing that he doesn't believe "we should be filling our church with people from other churches."

"We believe that the church is the fellowship of people of all races and nationalities who love God and seek to obey and worship him," Wenger said. "We believe the Bible is the inspired word of God."

Starting a new church is not a new idea to Wenger, who has started three, including Brethren in Christ churches in Hagerstown, Maryland, where he served for eight years; Waynesboro, where he served for 17 years; and another in South Hagerstown.

Wenger, who grew up in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, worked on his degree in theology at Messiah College, Grantham, Pennsylvania, and began work on his master's degree at the Lutheran Seminary in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. He plans to complete his master's work at Fuller Seminary in Pasadena.

He was involved in Youth for Christ work in Hagerstown and was a board member of Child Evangelism Fellowship of Washington County, Maryland.

Wenger will be assisted by his wife who has had counseling and psychiatric nursing experience and who hopes "to be involved in the program of the church as it grows."

Mrs. Wenger, who taught psychiatric nursing the past five years at Hagerstown Junior College, plans to finish work toward her master's degree in nursing. She was a missionary nurse 1963-66 in Algeria, affiliated with the Mennonite Church, and worked on Ship Hope in Tunisia 1969-70.

The Wengers, who have been married for two years, recently returned from a five-week tour of Zambia (Rhodesia) where they visited and spoke before local churches.

Wenger said it was a "big move" from the East Coast to the West Coast, but added, "It's exciting."

Alta Loma - Cucamonga residents interested in more information about the church can call the new pastor at home, (714) 987-6132.

"We just hope people who are seeking fellowship in the church of Jesus Christ contact us. They're welcome to become part of our fellowship," Wenger said.

CHP steps up tow away program

The California Highway Patrol has recently stepped-up its program of removing disabled or abandoned vehicles from freeways.

Previously, a vehicle could remain on the shoulder of the freeway for as long as 72 hours before being towed away. This is no longer the case. The new policy states that vehicles will be removed immediately. In some cases a vehicle may remain up to four hours after being tagged by CHP officers, but no longer.

The step up will hopefully increase safety on the freeways. Officers L.B. Hudson and Cliff Chandler, public affairs officers, said a car on the side of the road can distract motorists who have a tendency to divert their attention from driving to look at the car. Even if it is for a very brief period of time, they said, it can prove dangerous, or even fatal, to be inattentive to driving.

The CHP understands cars do break down and sometimes it is unavoidable to stop on the side of the road. However, it does not want people leaving their autos for extended periods of time. If a car breaks down, arrangements should be made immediately to have it removed.

When parking a car on the shoulder, it should be completely off the pavement and on the dirt portion of the shoulder, making it slightly less hazardous, the officers recommended. A car on the asphalt will be towed away immediately.

Hudson and Chandler advise drivers to stay with their vehicles if forced to stop. The reason being, they said, is because an officer who stops to check a vehicle with no one present, has no idea if the auto has broken down, been abandoned or left for some other reason.

Hudson said it may be bothersome to sit and wait, but a driver can be assured an officer will be along to help.

Be prepared for 'kiss of life'

Some day you may have the chance to help a "dead" person return to life.

You may be able to do this because a person who has stopped breathing, or whose heart has stopped beating, may not be dead. This is a relatively modern revelation.

Today the once - controversial practice is called mouth-to-mouth breathing, or artificial respiration. It is commonly taught to physicians and layment alike.

The mouth-to-mouth breathing technique, as well as external heart massage, are easy to learn and should be known by every parent, indeed every person capable of understanding and applying them should be informed.

Although a person who has stopped breathing, or whose heart has stopped beating, may not be dead, he will die if breathing and circulation are stopped for more than about three minutes, thus starving the brain of the oxygen it needs to operate.

When a person stops breathing and is suffocated, it is called asphyxiation. This may occur because of choking, electric shock, suffocation, poisoning, drowning or any number of other reasons.

Whatever the reason, time is precious. The victim will die unless artificial breathing is started rapidly.

If a child stops breathing, and you are nearby, here is what to do. First, although it always sounds trite, keep calm. You are the only person who knows what to do and how to control the situation.

If a child stops breathing and you are nearby, here is what to do. First, although it always sounds trite, keep calm. You are the only person who knows what to do and how to control the situation. If you panic you make mistakes and cause delays.

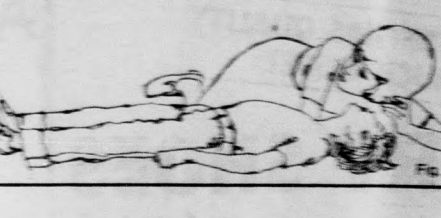

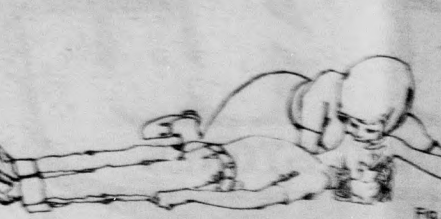

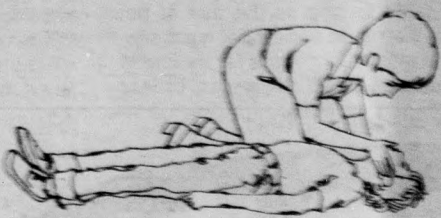

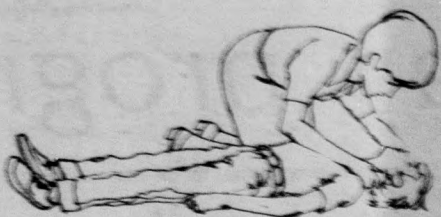

Start respiration immediately. Do not delay even to phone for help.

loosen clothes, remove wet clothes or move the child to another location. These things can all be done after the child begins breathing once again, or by another person. The most important thing is to get air into the child's lungs.

Here is how to apply mouth-to-mouth breathing:

1. Turn the child on his back.
2. Quickly remove any foreign matter from the mouth. Turn his head to the side and use your fingers to remove all obstructions.
3. Put one of your hands under the child's neck and other under his chin. Pull the chin upward until the head is tilted back as far as possible. This assures keeping the air passages to the lungs open during your revival efforts.
4. Place your mouth tightly over the child's mouth and nose. In the case of an older child or adult, put your mouth tightly over the victim's mouth and pinch his nostrils to prevent leakage of air.
5. Breathe into the child's mouth and nose until you see his chest rise.
6. Remove your mouth and listen for the sound of returning air. If you don't hear this, recheck the victim's chin and head position. Again clear mouth and throat of any obstructions.
7. Repeat breathing. Remove your mouth from the child's mouth and nose each time to allow air to escape. For a small child, take relatively short breaths and repeat about 20 times per minute. For an adult breathe vigorously about 12 times each minute.
8. Continue mouth-to-mouth breathing until the child begins breathing on his own, or for at least four hours, or until the patient is pronounced dead by a doctor.

If the child does begin to breathe on his own again, you may congratulate yourself. But do not become overconfident. Be prepared to restart breathing aid if it is needed.

Summer heat tips

Summer heat can be a serious hazard for pets. The Southern California Veterinary Medical Association warns all pet owners of the dangers presented by heat and exhaustion.

High temperatures and the inability of an animal to keep its body cool causes heatstroke. This serious condition results in death if an animal is not given treatment to bring the body temperature back to normal.

Heatstroke can be caused by exposure to excessive heat, especially when combined with high humidity. Parked cars with closed windows are potential death traps for animals locked inside. If an animal must be left in a parked vehicle, a minimum of two windows should be partially open to provide cross ventilation. The car should be parked in the shade. However, the shifting sun can quickly displace the shade and change a comfortable car interior into a deadly hot box.

The inside of a car heats very rapidly. An 85 degree day may cause the temperature inside a car to reach 102 degrees in 10 to 20 minutes. In 30 to 40 minutes, even in a well ventilated car, it may rise to 130 degrees.

Every summer, dozens of pets suffer heatstroke at the beach. Animals become overheated when encouraged to run and play with their owners. A thirsty animal will drink sea water which can cause serious brain damage or death. Remember to include a thermos of fresh water for your pet in the family picnic basket.

Should your pet become a victim of heatstroke, contact your veterinarian immediately. Prompt action is vital. If you are several miles from help, there are a number of things you can do to avoid serious damage to your pet.

Place the animal in the shade. Spray water on his body or immerse him in a tub of water. When the animal begins to cool off, the skin should be massaged vigorously and the legs flexed to aid blood circulation.

Dogs and cats have their own built-in cooling systems. Salivating and panting, rapid shallow breathing with an open mouth, is normal behavior that allows animals to cool off much the same way that sweating cools humans in hot weather.

rupts the animal's natural cooling system. Keep pets properly groomed to increase their comfort.

Pets need exercise even during the warm months of the year. Late evening or early morning hours are best suited to pet comfort and safety. Food intake should be reduced during hot spells. Late evening feeding is recommended.

A "Catch" In The Back Can Mean You're A Statistic

By Dr. W.P. Helzer, D.C.

One of the most distressing statistics regarding the health of our community's residents is that 8 out of 10 of them will sometime be struck down by low back pain! It is downright depressing when you realize that so much of the pain and suffering could be avoided by precautionary checkups or effective treatment at the first signs of the problem.

Low back pain has become a hazard to a family economy as scores of industrial workers are disabled annually by low back pain.

The high incidence of low back pain is not surprising when we combine the facts that most low back pain is due to mechanical defects of the spine. And that 75 percent of all forward bending or stooping motion occurs in the low back.

The structural or mechanical defects of the low back usually develop slowly and without pain over a period of many months.

The first signs of the developing defect might be no more than an occasional 'catch' or slight change of posture, or a vague weakness or tight feeling in the hips or legs.

As this defect develops to a crucial point a slight unguarded move or an unusual exercise is sufficient to disable the victim for days, or weeks or, unfortunately in some cases, permanently.

If only persons 30 and older would realize that their chances of low back disablement are high. If you reverse the statistics we've mentioned you realize that your chances are only 2 in 10 and that you WON'T have low back troubles unless you are checked for potential or existing problems and receive proper care and effective treatment.

Most leading insurance companies and workmen's compensation pays claims for on-the-job back injuries.

But your best insurance against disabling spinal disorders and specifically low back pain is the detection of spinal defects in the early stages.

I so firmly believe that we offer you and your family a regular professional hygiene program that allows you to be among the fortunate few who will go through life without the unhappy and painful incidence of low back disablement.

Woman vanquishes handicap

POMONA — "When nurses in the rest home where I was staying took away my walker for another patient's use, it was the last straw," exclaimed Ann Swann, "and I decided right then and there that I would go to Casa Colina and learn to do everything I could for myself."

Ann, who spent six weeks in intensive rehabilitation at Casa Colina, recently received the hospital's Patient-of-the-Year Award.

The award, which is given annually to the patient who has made the most significant rehabilitative progress, was presented by John Humphries, state Department of Rehabilitation counselor at Casa Colina. "This 60-year old woman," said Humphries, "has overcome tremendous obstacles. There were times when her smile and her positive attitude were all she had going for her. The onset of multiple sclerosis and the loss of tactile sensation in her fingers forced Ann to quit her 20-year position as Chicago school crossing guard," he said, "but she refused to quit on life."

The gallant woman's situation was complicated by financial disaster when her disability and medical benefits were withheld because of a technicality. Only with the help of her legislators was she able to have her rightful financial and medical benefits reinstated.

Humphries recounted Miss Swann's many problems, beginning when she was 20 years old with total and painful blindness caused by an accident. With corrective surgery, Ann was fortunately restored her full vision. She has also had eight other major surgeries, and attributes her present strength and determination to these difficult experiences.

"When Ann was admitted to Casa Colina, she used a wheelchair and could not dress, bathe or feed herself without assistance," said Dr. Julie Votvin, her attending physician, "but she had incredible motivation. After six weeks of grueling, intensive therapy, she could walk with a walker, drive using an electric cart and maintain herself independently."

As if her own struggles were not a challenge enough, Ann Swann constantly extended herself to other patients, encouraging and challenging them to overcome their handicaps. When she was finally able to establish herself in her own apartment in Pomona, she continued to reach out to others. She took into her home a 21-year-old disabled woman who had lived until then in a convalescent home. With Miss Swann's help, the young woman, once completely dependent on others for her daily care, has learned to live independently in the community, and now plans to return to school.

"I learned so much at Casa Colina that I felt compelled to share it," commented Miss Swann. "Sure, I had the necessary motivation but the doctors and therapists ... everyone ... were so dedicated to working out my problems. They made me feel very important. For instance, Judy Hon, my occupational therapist, gave special attention to working out my horrendous problems with all those necessary daily activities most people take so much for granted, — getting dressed, managing bathing and toileting without help, ironing, cooking, things like that."

Ann participates in the Pomona Chapter of the Indoor Sports Club at Casa Colina, is membership chairperson for the local California Association for the Physically Handicapped, and still finds time to contribute volunteer service to Casa Colina and the local Crippled Children's Society.

Asked if she had any message for other handicapped persons, Miss Swann replied, with an unforgettable smile, "Tell them ... try. Tell them to try even if they think they can't do it. When other people see a handicapped person really trying, they are encouraged, too."

"I'm very fortunate," she reflected, "I wake up with a special prayer every day. I thank God for the new day and its opportunities. When I go to bed at night and start thanking God for all the things I'm able to do, I fall asleep before I get through. I'm so grateful I'm not flat on my back."

A six-week struggle for independence ended in victory for Ann Swann, 60, right, who was recently honored as "Patient of the Year" at Casa Colina Hospital in Pomona. The award was presented by John Humphries, counselor for the state Department of Rehabilitation. Miss Swann, a former school crossing guard, was stricken with multiple sclerosis and was unable to dress, bathe or feed herself without help before the therapy. She now has her own apartment, can drive and maintains herself independently.

Teens use make-up

Just about every teen-age girl (95.1 per cent) in the United States wears eye make-up, especially mascara and shadow.

Next most popular beauty products are blusher and nail polish, each used by nine out of 10 girls, according to a recent Seventeen Magazine survey.

Lips get attention too; more than five out of six young women go for lip gloss and/or chapped lip products, and nearly half stick with lipstick.

Not only do girls like make-up, they like to wear it often. Eye make-up is an every day affair for three out of four girls, and so is blusher. As for nail polish, one out of three girls applies it at least every three days!

Save the Animals Fund

Fashion benefit

A gala luncheon and fashion show on Saturday, Sept. 18, will mark the first annual charity event sponsored by Save the Animals Fund.

The event will be held at Griswold's Pavilion, Claremont, with fall fashions from Bullock's to be modeled. Lynn Willis Trio will provide the background music.

Celebrities expected to attend include Earl Holliman from the television series "Police Woman," Jackie Joseph, vice president of the Actors and Others, who has appeared on numerous talk shows, and Arlene Golanka, a television actress who has been on "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," other television series and is in movie soon to be released.

Save the Animals Fund was incorporated in California in 1971 as a non-profit, tax-exempt organization dedicated to the welfare of all animals and living creatures.

Membership is open to all interested adults and juniors who want to help the helpless.

Purposes of the group are: to prevent cruelty to animals; to relieve the suffering among animals and all living creatures; to promote humane education to encourage a responsible and compassionate attitude towards all animals and living things; to encourage the spaying and neutering of domestic pets; to awaken the conscience of mankind to the iniquity of experiments causing suffering and pain to animals; to give sanctuary to maltreated or abandoned animals and find them suitable homes; to give lectures and show films in schools and children's clubs and demonstrate responsible pet ownership and kindness to all animals; and to assist in emergency veterinary care of sick and injured animals.

The conviction of the Save the Animals Fund officers is that the child who is instilled with compassion and consideration for animals is the one who grows to be the mature, well-adjusted person — an asset to his country and community — whose concern extends to the needs of all, humans and animals, wherever suffering, abuse or injustice exists.

The officers feel if animal lovers in this country were to unite, cruelty to animals would end. No matter how young or old a person, they can give valuable assistance to the fight in progress to protect animals.

Cats and dogs are being born in the United States at the rate of 10,000 per hour. That is 240,000 a day. That makes 87,600,000 a year. Even if every one of the more than 200 million men, women and children in the country adopted an animal, millions would still be homeless.

The fate of these homeless animals doesn't make pleasant reading. The lucky ones are taken to a good animal shelter, where they receive proper food and care and have a chance to be adopted. But it isn't realistic to expect to find home for all of them. In fact, only one in 10 is adopted. The rest are put to death...and these include cats and dogs as cute as those in your home.

The Save the Animals Fund is striving to work for the prevention of cruelty to animals, and the gala fashion show and luncheon is a first major step in raising funds for the work ahead.

Reservations or further information may be obtained by calling Karen Spitzer at 597-3411 or Carolyn Boor at 981-2347. Reservations deadline closes Monday, Sept. 13.

Summer hours end at Disneyland Nature slides due

Sunday, Sept. 5, is the final day of Disneyland's 8 a.m. to 1 a.m. summer operating schedule. On Sept. 6-9 the Park will be open 9 a.m. to midnight, with 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. hours set for Sept. 10 and 11.

A 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. schedule is slated Sept. 12 and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sept. 13-17. A special "Date Nite" on Sept. 18 will see 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. hours.

During the remainder of the fall and winter season the park will be open 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekends, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesdays through Fridays and closed Mondays and Tuesdays, except when hours are extended for special events and holidays.

Nightly "Fantasy in the Sky" fireworks will continue to be offered at 9 p.m. through Sept. 11, with bicentennial pageant "America on Parade" scheduled to conclude Sept. 6.

The Pomona Valley Camera Club will host the annual preview of the Los Angeles County Fair's color slide exhibit on nature to be shown Thursday, Sept. 9 at 7:30 p.m.

The preview will be shown at the First Christian Church, 1751 N. Park Ave., Pomona.

The public is invited to attend the showing free of charge. For more information, call 628-3348.

The Wgasa Bush Line Monorail passes through the homes of many rare and exotic animals, like these white-bearded gnu, at the San Diego Wild Animal Park. The five-mile, 50 minute tour runs through an area containing 2,200 animals and 186 species. The tour is extended into night during the summer.

Monorail tours animal preserve

The Wgasa Bush Line Monorail at the San Diego Wild Animal Park takes visitors on a five-mile, 50 minute tour of a major portion of the 1800-acre wildlife preserve, home to approximately 1100 animals of 186 species.

Each of the 13 electrically-powered, two-car monorail trains carries 125 passengers on a comfortable, open-air safari through areas representing East Africa, South Africa, North Africa, the Asian bush, the Asian swamp and Australia. Animals from each geographic location inhabit the preserve, living much as they do in the wild — free to roam their multi-acre enclosures, forage for food among the natural growth or eat from food and water provided by keepers, mate, produce young, and eventually die in a relatively stress-free environment.

During most of the year, daytime monorail tours begin at 9:30 a.m. and extend until dusk.

Nighttime monorail safaris are offered now through Labor Day (Sept. 6) from dark to 10 p.m. The Park opens to the public daily at 9 a.m.

Memorial to Jim Herzog

Benefit to be held

POMONA — In remembrance of the late Jim Herzog, well-known local restaurant manager and bartender, a golf tournament benefitting handicapped children at Casa Colina Hospital for Rehabilitative Medicine will be held on Sept. 12.

Friends and fellow restaurateurs are sponsoring the event, which will be held at the new El Prado Golf Course and Country Club in Chino. "Jim was huge in body and spirit," one associate said. "He loved people, especially children, and was an avid golfer. A tournament to benefit a handicapped child seems an appropriate memorial." The tournament is expected to be an annual event.

Herzog, who was killed in an auto accident in May, worked for many years at the St. Charles Grille, Pomona, and became manager of the Fireside Inn, Pomona, in 1972. He was employed by the Golden Spur Restaurant, Glendora, at the time of his death. Herzog was born in Los Angeles and served three years overseas with the U.S. Air Force. His wife, Betty resides in Upland.

Registration is open through August 31. The entry fee includes cart, green fees, prizes and an after-the-game buffet. Tickets for the buffet only are available.

The committee in charge includes Bob Frascetti and Bob Teller, co-chairmen; Lucia De Weese, ticket sales; Tobie Roberg, coordinator of volunteer assistance at the golf course; and John N. Nolan, prizes.

Tournament reservations and buffet tickets are available at Casa Colina, Pomona; The Sage Hen, Claremont; The Golden Spur, Glendora; The Firehouse Inn, Pomona; The Cat & The Fiddle, Upland; The Little Club, Montclair; La Cabana, Pomona; and Narod's in Chino.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Robert Teller, 623-9457.

Art lectures set

Well-known art critic and educator Sandy Ballatore will coordinate UCLA Extension's upcoming lecture series for the fall titled "Art/L.A. '76'" beginning Thursday, Oct. 7. "Art/L.A. '76'" will meet through Dec. 2, 7:30 to 10 p.m., in Room 1200 Royce Hall on the UCLA campus. Two units of continuing education credit may be earned.

For additional information call The Arts, UCLA Extension, (213) 825-6059.

Topics of discussion are "Los Angeles: Flash, Dash, and Open Space," "Mainstream or Not," "Growing Up Absurd: The Development of an Artist," "Horror Vacui: The Critical Void" and "Private Eyes and Public Spaces."
